Multi-Trip Plan Option: Perfect for frequent travelers, offering unlimited trips of up to 18 days each year.

Easy Application Process: Just call, provide your travel dates, and answer a few simple questions about your health.

Travel Insurance FAQs

What is travel insurance?

Travel insurance protects you from unexpected costs like emergency medical expenses, trip cancellations, lost baggage, and travel accidents.

Does provincial health insurance cover travel abroad?

Provincial health plans cover only limited costs abroad and often exclude ambulance services, prescriptions, or private hospital fees. Proof of travel insurance is usually required.

What if a family member gets ill or passes away?

Trip cancellation or interruption insurance may cover you if a close family member falls ill or passes away, preventing or cutting short your trip.

What does travel insurance cover?

It includes medical services, ambulance fees, emergency returns, trip interruptions, cancellations, and baggage issues.

When should I purchase travel insurance?

Purchase anytime before departure, but for trip cancellation coverage, it's best to buy it when booking your trip.

Does travel insurance cover pregnancy?

Yes, but exclusions apply for routine care, complications, and childbirth within 9 weeks of your due date.

Can my grandchild be covered under a family plan?

Yes, as long as your grandchild is listed on the policy, traveling with you, and under age 60.
